Testimonials:

"I joined Chadbourne & Parke's London office in October of 2008 after completing my LL.M. at the University of Chicago Law School. I have found there to be many opportunities available to lawyers who work at Chadbourne, including a high level of responsibility, regular client interaction and work on complex assignments. Chadbourne is a well diversified global law firm with many advantages. Partners encourage first-year associates to take part in various professional development opportunities and are always ready to discuss them. I have had access to the same training and education as the NY associates and was able to participate in the Firm's annual Worldwide Orientation Program. Chadbourne's global presence allows its International Interns the ability to work across multiple jurisdictions and with other Chadbourne offices. Most recently, I took part in a deal where we represented a major energy provider in its investments in the Middle East. Chadbourne is a great place for lawyers who are looking to take advantage of their international backgrounds." - 2008 International Intern

"My experience at Chadbourne & Parke has been demanding, enriching and exciting. The exposure I have gained to high-profile deals has not been as a mere spectator, but rather as an active player. In addition to the diversity of the practice I belong to, the most rewarding aspect of my experience at the firm has been the individuals I haven't gotten to know. The attorneys and the staff at Chadbourne are all a part of the same great team." - 2008 International Intern

"I was immediately struck by Chadbourne's commitment to being a global law firm. Not only has it established offices in several countries - with a remarkable presence in emerging markets -, but most matters are staffed with attorneys from various jurisdictions. I have enjoyed extensive contact with professionals from the UK, Argentina, Poland, Mexico, Russia, Colombia, Turkey and Chile, to name a few, and have taken a lot from the experience. Chadbourne has developed a very strong international network and maintains close relations with leading law firms throughout the world. My time at Chadbourne has definitely broadened my perspective on the legal profession and will have a lasting positive impact on my career." - 2008 International Intern
